THE VOTE IN GEORGIA

The "straw" vote in Georgia, concerning Presidential electors, is a defeat for the Democrats. Moreover, it is a surprising defeat, and one which amounts to repudiation of the official state Democratic Party line in Georgia.

Governor Ernest Vandiver, who has committed himself to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, had told reporters from all sections of the nation that Georgia would endorse the Democratic electors in the September 14th referendum. The Governor has proved to be wrong, and Georgia voters have, instead, endorsed independent electors.

Curiously, this does not bind the electors and they may nevertheless vote Democratic. On the other hand, it does amount to an expression of public opinion which repudiates the position taken by the State Democratic Party. And it may prevent Georgia's United States Senators from coming out actively in behalf of the Democratic ticket.

Conceivably it could result in a Republican victory at the polls in November, although this is still discounted by some forces. Georgia's Governor for example, said he thought the people would rally to the party ticket by November. If he is as inaccurate on this prediction as he was on former ones however, Georgia may vote Republican.

The greatest significance of the Georgia vote is that it shows revolt against the Democratic Party in the South has grown faster than some had thought. And it has included areas, such as Georgia, which were supposedly immune to the spreading fever.

RED HILL PROJECT GAINING IN SUPPORT

"Red Hill will someday become a mecca like Mt. Vernon for all Americans," State Senator J. D. Hagood of Clover told members of The American Legion Auxiliary at the Fourth District meeting in Farmville, Saturday.

Dr. Hagood, speaking in behalf of the Patrick Henry Boys Plantation of which he is president said, "we are making tracks." He outlined plans to make the Patrick Henry farm a living memorial to the patriot and cited achievements made thus far.

The Auxiliary members were told that restoration of the shrine is nearing completion as a result of generous contributions of Eugene B. Casey, of Baltimore, Md. He noted that finances are in order for restoration of the law office and other outbuildings.

But, the main emphasis of Dr. Hagood was on Patrick Henry Boys Plantation, that part of the partially cleared farm which will be used as a home for the rehabilitation of young homeless white boys, not criminals or juvenile delinquents.

The first cottage has been built and applications for a house mother and father are now being processed, according to Dr. Hagood. The brick structure with a capacity for eight boys was built with two gifts from the Lynchburg Foundry and the Alice Kyle District, Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Charles T. Lewin of Suffolk, State President of the American Legion Auxiliary has chosen Patrick Henry Boys Plantation the Charlotte County memorial as her project for this year, and was present at the District meeting to speak on behalf of this project. Her goal for the state is $30,000 and for the Fourth District is $3,000. Mrs. J. R. Sheffield of Victoria is State Chairman of this Project.

Mrs. Charles T. Moses, Jr., of Appomattox, is President of the Fourth District presided at the meeting, which was held in the Farmville Baptist Church. Members of Jack Garland Unit number 32 Farmville were hostesses for the meeting. The District Chairmen were present to present their plans for the work of The Auxiliary for the year.

Mrs. Charles G. L. Huether of Hopewell and Mrs. J. R. Sheffield of Victoria, Past Presidents of the Department of Virginia and Mrs. Malcolm Wynn of South Hill, Department Vice-president of the Second and Fourth Districts were present.

Election Nearing; Moses For Ticket

LOCAL LADY HONORED BY STATE U. D. C.

At today's session of the annual session of the Virginia Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, Mrs. Calvin H. Robinson, of Appomattox, was elected to the top-ranked office of Historian of the Virginia Division.

Virginia U. D. C. has been meeting week at Hotel Roanoke, Roanoke, Va. The convention concludes tonight.

Mrs. Robinson, co-publisher of The Times-Virginian, has served in the U. D. C. as Chapter President, District Chairman and Division First Vice President. Her new duties will begin at the close of programs of all state chapters, and of all historical activities such as essay contest for the state, all of which is presently in contact during the approaching Civil War Centennial Years. Mrs. Robinson was sponsored by her District, and received for this office.

With the national Presidential Election rapidly approaching, attention is called to the fact that October 8 is the deadline for new voters to register and for transfer of registration.

Ballots have been prepared for the election, and mail vote applications are receivable.

Taking a positive stand, Senator Chas. T. Moses, of Appomattox, today came out in support of the Democratic ticket, although with some misgivings as to the national party platform.

Sen. Moses' statement follows:

"I think I am obligated to state how I expect to vote Nov. 8th.

"I am making up to support the Democratic ticket.

"But would like to make the following statement, for the future, my record of voting in the past where I had an opportunity to do so - in the State Senate proves the same.

"I am going to work for and vote the same way every time I have an opportunity, to keep our founding fathers and forefathers ideas of State's Rights.

"I do not approve of any national platform that has or further declares it will break or take our State's Rights.

To my friends that feel as I do, I solicit their vote and support for the Democratic ticket Nov. 8th.

"Come out and vote. Senator A. Willis Robertson is up for re-election and our own 4th District Congressman, Hon. Watkins M. Abbitt is also up for re-election."

Chas. T. Moses.
